Beverley is a 20-year veteran of the nonprofit sector. Prior to joining the staff of NCRP, she was director of finance and administration and assistant board secretary at the New York Regional Association of Grantmakers. Beverley is the founder of a philanthropic network of foundation and corporate giving administrators. The network provides professional development, skill building and networking opportunities for its members. Early in her career Beverley worked in the private sector for various corporations in the areas of research and administration. She has also worked in the field of advertising as an account representative at Kenyon & Eckhardt Advertising in Kingston, Jamaica.

Beverley's personal interest in youth and women issues is aligned with her volunteer work and past board service.
