NCRP Selects Aaron Dorfman as its New Executive Director

Washington, D.C.- The National Committee for Responsive Philanthropy (NCRP) announces the selection of Aaron Dorfman as its new Executive Director. Dorfman is currently the executive director and lead organizer of People Acting for Community Together (PACT).

David R. Jones, chairman of NCRP, called Dorfman an “ideal” choice. “Aaron Dorfman is a remarkable leader and a proven advocate for the poor and vulnerable,” Jones said.

Former Miami Herald publisher and president of The Early Childhood Initiative Foundation David Lawrence Jones, chairman of NCRP, called Dorfman an “ideal” choice. “Aaron Dorfman is a remarkable leader and a proven advocate for the poor and vulnerable,” Jones said.

In 1992, Dorfman began his notable career in grassroots advocacy with the Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now (ACORN). Under his leadership, ACORN grew from a small organization to a national network of over 100 local chapters.

Under Dorfman’s leadership, PACT quadrupled its member institutions, raised their annual budget more than fivefold, and became a leading voice in the national conversation about child care and early childhood education.

Dorfman expressed his pleasure at being chosen to lead the premier philanthropic watchdog organization. “I am honored to join NCRP and to work with the dedicated staff and board members to advance our mission of ensuring that philanthropy is used effectively to address the needs of the poor and vulnerable,” he said.

Founded in 1976, the National Committee for Responsive Philanthropy is dedicated to helping the philanthropic community understand and address the needs of the poor and vulnerable. For more information, visit www.ncrp.org or call (202) 387-9177.
