

For Immediate Release

2/9/2004

Contact:

Laura Loescher

(415) 551-2363

laura@changemakers.org

NEW REPORT ON 'COMMUNITY-BASED PUBLIC FOUNDATIONS'

but Vibrant Funders Committed to Grassroots Social Change

WASHINGTON ----- The National Committee for Responsive Philanthropy today released a new report titled "Community-based public foundations may not make up a large slice of philanthropy - but they serve as a powerful force for social change." This NCRP report on community-based public foundations shows what Changemakers has long believed: that community-based public foundations are a powerful force for social change. The NCRP report studied 192 community-based public foundations that raised more than $202 million and found that they are committed to grassroots social change. - more -

NCRP News Release

Monday, Feb. 9, 2004

Page 2 of 2

NCRP's new report - Community-Based Public Foundations: Small Beacons for Big Ideas - can be viewed at www.ncrp.org

Founded in 1976, the National Committee for Responsive Philanthropy is dedicated to helping the philanthropic community understand and address the needs of the community.